· There are a vast number of tangents to the daily life at Madison. You pass by the same persons and places every day, but what really is noticed and remembered? What did you explore and discover while you were here and what did you miss? Think about the various people that live and work at Madison, sporting events, plays, concerts and coffee houses, homecomings, registration, classes, the library, Wilson Hall, Anthony Seeger, art studios, the craft shop, a civil defense shelter, an afternoon by the lake, the campus at night . . . .

THE ARCHITECT'S VISION OF THE FUTURE

THE BICENTENIAL

Beginnings . . . usually small in reality but filled with dreams of the future. The Bicentennial looks back at the beginnings of this country and Madison, one of the national bicentennial colleges, celebrates this glance at the past with lectures, plays, and special events. The bicen-tenial spirit also prompts a view of Madison's beginning and like the country it held extensive ideals for the future. Today though celebrating the past, both campus and country continue to look forward to the future.

SPORTS

Feel your body as it flows . . . watch the precision of the human form in motion . . . know victory or just knock around in between studying and classes . . . enjoy and get into the performance and plays that occur. Many purposes surround the involvement of the athlete and spectator, and it's for these reasons that there exists such a rich variety of sports at Madison.

ADMINISTRATION AND FACULTY

What does it mean to run Madison College? Budgeting finances, planning new buildings and renovating the old, hiring various personnel, arranging a curriculum, procuring teaching materials, advising students . . . Many people and services go unseen but are felt in daily life here. Yet how much is taken for granted?
